

Commodity

Investment Philosophy & Approach

Geode believes that commodities are a distinct asset class which can play an important role within a well-diversified asset allocation mix. Commodities have the potential to hedge against inflation and offer lower correlation to traditional asset classes. In a resource-constrained investment environment, commodities tend to offer returns that are comparable to those in traditional asset classes.

Investment Approach

Geode is committed to developing systematic and risk controlled commodity strategies for its clients. We currently manage index replication and long-only active commodity strategies.

Index

Replication

- The Geode Commodity Strategy seeks to provide investors with broad-based commodity market exposure through an efficient & risk-controlled investment process, while minimizing the risk attributed to the collateral portfolio.

Enhanced-Roll

- The Geode Enhanced Roll Strategy seeks to outperform the benchmark through efficient optimization

Systematic Active

- The Geode Active Commodity Strategy seeks to outperform the benchmark by capturing long-term risk premiums in the commodity markets.
- The strategy employs a dynamic approach to capitalize on the inherent fundamental properties of commodities and invests across the term structure to potentially provide broad-based exposure with lower volatility relative to the benchmark.
- We use a diversified alpha signal to construct the portfolio, and employ a multi-factor risk model to monitor both parallel and non-parallel risks inherent in commodity markets.
